

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

BALLADE OF BALLADÉS

TO AUSTIN DOBSON.

*From the sunny climes of France,
Flying to the west,
Came a flock of birds by chance,
There to sing and rest :
Of some secrets deep in quest,—
Justice for their wrongs,—
Seeking one to shield their breast,
One to write their songs.*

*Melodies of old romance,
Joy and gentle jest,
Notes that made the dull heart dance
With a merry zest ;
Maids in matchless beauty drest,
Youths in happy throngs ;—
These they sang to tempt and test
One to write their songs.*

*In old London's wide expanse
Built each feathered guest,— Man's small pleasure to enhance,
Singing him to rest,—
Came, and tenderly confessed,
Perched on leafy prongs,
Life were sweet if they possessed
One to write their songs.*

ENVOY.

*Austin, it was you they blest :
Fame to you belongs !
Time has proven you're the best
One to write their songs !*

Foreword.

WHEN commencing, some years ago, a brief catalogue of a small collection of Mr. Dobson's books, it was not intended to attempt anything so elaborate as the present Bibliography; but a desire for accuracy, combined with a collector's mania for possession, have constantly conspired to enlarge the scope of the work, until it is now presented to the collector and librarian, not indeed as an infallible guide, but as an honest (if feeble) attempt to fill one of the gaps in the bibliographical shelf.

The personal possession of the greater part of the works mentioned has possibly prevented the compiler from falling into some of those errors incidental to a work of this kind, as it has afforded opportunities of verifying over and over again almost every entry.

It may be as well to give here some general idea of the scope and arrangement of this book, though it is hoped that the various sections are sufficiently clear to need no guide.

In Part I., which divides itself naturally into four sections, the titles of the first issues (and of later issues when the alterations are considerable) are given verbatim, limit of lines being shown by the mark /. A novelty has been introduced in the repetition of the same style of type as that used in the title-pages (upper and lower case, italics, capitals, &c.) ; but though adding greatly to the trouble given to the printer (not to mention the compiler), it is doubtful whether the reader will consider this an advantage. The impossibility of employing type the size of that used in the original titles probably qualifies any advantage that might have resulted from this novelty. Particulars of the illustrations (when not given in the title-page) are added below, as well as particulars of binding, number printed, &c. Failing the general adoption by bibliographers of an accurate method of denoting size, sizes are given in conventional terms, preference being given to the publishers' own nomenclature. The collations, except in the case of works of an encyclopædic character, are given with great fullness, and it is hoped with accuracy. Probably many of the works thus elucidated are not worthy of such full treatment, but it has appeared better to err in that way than to lack uniformity. Besides, a book which at the moment may have no particular interest or value may, at a future date, acquire by accident either or both these qualities. The word idem is used only when the title-page is an exact transcript of that of the item immediately preceding ; ditto being used when another edition is denoted.

Part II. is given in order to briefly chronicle Mr. Dobson's literary career.

Part III. does not pretend to be complete. The number and variety of the periodicals to which Mr. Dobson has contributed from 1864 to the present time render the search an almost never-ending one ; and though, no doubt, it could be done with "time and patience," it must be left for other hands to fill in the lacunæ.

On Part IV. a great amount of labour has been bestowed, and it is hoped that this part may be of considerable value and interest. It will be noted that the information about each piece is placed beneath the title under which the piece first appeared, but entries of the later titles, with cross references to the original titles, make reference an easy matter to those who know a piece by its later title only. In the few cases in which it has been impossible to discover the provenance of a piece, it has necessarily been entered under the title under which it is now known, but it is only right to warn the reader that a few such pieces may have appeared under other titles.

In consulting the Indices, their scope and intent must be borne in mind, or the reader may be disappointed.

It is hoped that the imperfections of this book will be found to consist more of omissions than commissions. No doubt many books are omitted ; but those included have been carefully described, and it can be said of them, as Mr. Dobson himself says of the works enumerated in his Bibliography of the Vicar of Wakefield, "nearly all the copies here included have been examined de visu." In a bibliographical work the difficulty is to know when to stop. In the present work, many of the minutiae of description inserted in other bibliographies are conspicuous by their absence—such as imprints, headlines, letterings of bindings, published (or market) prices, &c. These may be faults, and it is right that, if they are, blame should be given. But, on the other hand, a greater fullness in other directions may perchance balance the scale, and the critic is requested to bear this in mind before pouring out the full vials of his wrath. No one is more aware of the incompleteness of his labours than the writer ; and now that his work is finished, many possible improvements are visible. Should a second edition ever be called for, an opportunity will be afforded of making these improvements, as well as any necessary additions, and to this end corrections and additions will be thankfully received.

In conclusion, it is a pleasure to thank those who have assisted in this compilation, viz., most of the publishers of the works mentioned ; Mr. C. M. Falconer, of Dundee, who has revised several proof-sheets ; and particularly Colonel W. F. Prideaux, C.S.I., who has given the greatest assistance and encouragement, entering into the compiler's labour with an enthusiasm which has served to lighten it, and a kindness which has made it sweet.

F. E. MURRAY.

Mr. Austin Dobson's Poetry.*

THE publication in England of three hundred and fifty copies of the édition de luxe of Mr. Dobson's poems, under the title of Poems on Several Occasions (2 vols., 1895), was the occasion of an interesting paper in The Bookman (February, 1896) on The Poetry of Austin Dobson, by Mr. Davenport Adams; and the present seems a fitting opportunity for correcting certain errors in Mr. Davenport Adams' article, in order to avoid the perpetuation of error when the pages of The Bookman are searched, at any future day, for bibliographical information.

It would be presumption in the present writer to correct one who, like Mr. Adams, is thoroughly acquainted with the poetical literature of the nineteenth century (his Comic Poets of the Nineteenth Century has long been one of the writer's closest companions), were he not by a special study of the subject qualified to speak, and had he not almost every volume to which Mr. Dobson has in any way contributed at hand for verifying his corrections.

*Written for a periodical, and now printed with slight alterations.

Before touching on Mr. Adams' article, it may not be out of place to give, roughly, the relationship to one another of the various volumes of poetry from Mr. Dobson's pen, thus :—

Collected Poems, 1897, contains nine more poems than Poems on Several Occasions, 2 vols., 1895, which contains eleven more poems than Old World Idylls, 9th ed., 1889, and { which are provided with titles at the end
At the Sign of the Lyre, 6th ed., 1889, { of the latter for binding in 2 vols. under the name of
Poems on Several Occasions, 2 vols., London, 1889, which is the same in contents
as the American collection,
Poems on Several Occasions, 2 vols. (New York), 1889.

Old World Idylls, 9th ed., 1889, is the same in contents as Old World Idylls, 1883, which contains two poems not in the corresponding American volume,
Vignettes in Rhyme and other Verses (New York), 1880, which contains the bulk of the pieces in Proverbs in Porcelain, 1877, and Vignettes in Rhyme (London), 1873.

At the Sign of the Lyre, 6th ed., 1889, contains twelve poems which are not in the first edition,

At the Sign of the Lyre, 1885, which contains nineteen poems not in the corresponding American volume,

At the Sign of the Lyre (New York), 1885, which contains the principal remaining pieces in the Proverbs (1877) and the Vignettes (1873), not reprinted in Vignettes in Rhyme, 1880, together with an entirely fresh collection of more recent verses.

Selected Poems, Leipzig, 1892, contains considerably less than the first named in this list.

We commenced this comparison by saying "give, roughly, the relationship," because though the additional pieces are noted, it is unnecessary here to note the variations in the way of omissions (all these points are dealt with in the following "Bibliography").

Now, then, to correct Mr. Adams' slight mistakes. He says, with reference to St. Paul's Magazine: "Up to and including that date [July, 1870], Mr. Dobson had invariably signed 'A. D.' From that time upwards his name was given in full." That is true, except that "André le Chapelain," in December, 1873, is not signed at all. From the fact that it was only during Anthony Trollope's editorship (as Mr. Adams points out) that Mr. Dobson used his initials only, notwithstanding that in 1865 and 1866 he appended "Austin Dobson" to at least three pieces published in The Englishwoman's Domestic Magazine (not since reprinted), may we not infer that this use of initials only was counselled by the editor?

Mr. Adams quotes the rhythmical preface to Vignettes in Rhyme, 1873, adding, "which has not been reprinted." It was, however, reprinted in the second and third editions (1874 and 1875) at the end as "L'Envoi (to the First Edition)." Of the contents he says, "A Short Vacation" and "Love's Quest" "have not, I believe, been republished in volume form." But neither of these pieces appear in the first edition, though they are included in the second and third. The latter piece has since been restored in the Collected Poems. Of another poem in St. Paul's he says, "'André le Chapelain' was reprinted in At the Sign of the Lyre;" but it was previously reprinted in the two editions (1877 and 1878) of Proverbs in Porcelain.

Probably by a printer's error Mr. Adams is made to say, "The poems which appeared in the Vignettes for the first time in book-form were," &c. What he evidently meant was "The other poems," i.e., other than those which had appeared in St. Paul's. In the list of these others he gives the provenance of all except "A Revolutionary Relic," "Incognita," and "The Peacock on the Wall." The last-named we have ourselves not been able to trace to any other source, and conclude, therefore, that it was written for the Vignettes; but the other two appeared respectively in The Englishwoman's Domestic Magazine, November, 1866, and October, 1866, over the signature "H. A. D." And here it would not be perhaps out of place to remark that it was in this periodical, and the same year, that those admirable papers on Mademoiselle de Corday, &c. appeared, which were not reprinted till 1890, under the title Four Frenchwomen.

Of the four poems which, as Mr. Adams then correctly says, have not been reprinted since their appearance in Vignettes in Rhyme, one, "A City Flower," has been restored in the Collected Poems, with a note by the author to the effect that it was his first contribution (as far as he remembers) to a magazine. [In the Collected Poems are also restored the dedicatory lines "To Frederick Locker" of Proverbs in Porcelain (1877), though they are merely printed amongst the "Notes."] Mr. Adams adds: "A second edition of Vignettes appeared in England in 1874;" but omits to say that a third appeared in 1875.

Of the contents of Proverbs in Porcelain, Mr. Adams remarks that certain of the "Rose Leaves" "Mr. Dobson has not reproduced in his collected works"; but they appeared in the American Vignettes in Rhyme (New York), 1880, though not in its English counterpart, Old World Idylls, 1883. Of this latter volume Mr. Adams says, "The chief pieces new to book-form were," &c.; but in reality he mentions the only pieces which were new. Of "The Ballad of Imitation" he remarks, it "had also been first seen in a periodical"—the periodical was Belgravia, March, 1878.

Mr. Adams need no longer grudge the Continental public their Selected Poems, because every piece in that volume is included in Collected Poems.

The reference in the following words to the illustrated volume published in 1893 under the title Proverbs in Porcelain is rather misleading, as it would give one the idea that it was a reprint of the whole of Proverbs in Porcelain, 1877, whereas it really only contained the six "Proverbs in Porcelain" from that volume (or, as the author says, from Old World Idylls), together with the piece, "Au Revoir." Mr. Adams did not probably mean that to be understood, but this is what he says: "To an illustrated re-issue of the 'Proverbs in Porcelain' in 1893, the author added a Vignette—'Au Revoir'—which has already figured in At the Sign of the Lyre." In speaking of the Poems on Several Occasions, 1895, Mr. Adams ignores the fact that the 1889 editions of Old World Idylls and At the Sign of the Lyre were practically the Poems on Several Occasions of New York, 1889, and that not only was one of them provided with titles to enable purchasers to bind them up under the general title if they wished, but the English publishers themselves issued some copies so bound and lettered. Of the 1895 volumes he remarks that they contain "ten or eleven hitherto uncollected pieces." The exact number is eleven, or twelve if you count the "Prologue" and "Epilogue" to Abbey's "Quiet Life" as two, which is probably the correct thing to do. Of the verses, "'Sat est Scripsisse,'" which appear in these volumes, he remarks, "which have already been read in a London periodical." The periodical was The Yellow Book, vol. ii., 1894, but the lines had previously been printed in the Catalogue of Mr. Gosse's Library, 1893. These may seem trifling matters, but in bibliography the merest trifles are essential.

ORIGINAL WORKS IN VERSE.

PART I.

CHRONOLOGICAL LIST OF BOOKS, WRITTEN, EDITED, OR CONTRIBUTED TO, BY AUSTIN DOBSON ; with Collations of all the most important, and Notices of the different Editions.

i. Original Works in Verse.

. Those editions which are marked with an asterisk at the end are not in the compiler's library.

(I.) VIGNETTES IN RHYME. 1873.

VIGNETTES IN RHYME / AND VERS DE SOCIÉTÉ / (NOW FIRST COLLECTED) / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / HENRY S. KING & CO., / 65 CORNHILL AND 12 PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON. / 1873.

Fcap. 8vo. Pp. viii. + 220. Brown cloth, lettered on back and side, edges untrimmed.

Collation : Half title, [All Rights reserved] on reverse, 1 leaf ; title, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; dedication to Anthony Trollope, with verses on reverse, 1 leaf ; contents, 1 leaf ; the poems, 108 leaves ; notes, 2 leaves. Published Nov. 15th, 1873.

This volume includes three poems which have never been reprinted in subsequent collections, viz., A Song of Angiola Dead, A Song of Angiola on Earth, and The Peacock on the Wall. One other piece—the first verses that Mr. Dobson published (in Temple Bar, Dec., 1864)—“A City Flower,” was omitted from subsequent collections till 1897, when it was included in Collected Poems (q. v.).

Several copies of the first edition were put up by the publishers in the cloth covers of the second edition. One of the writer's correspondents has a copy in this form.

“His poems have great promise, for he not only accomplishes admirably what he attempts, but shows continually that he is capable of higher forms of effort.”—Guardian.

If there is any taste left in us for subtle wit, delicate humour, happy rhymes, and well-turned expressions, Vignettes in Rhyme ought to be the most popular book of the day.”—Westminster Review.

“Mr. Dobson gives us something more than the tone and manner of cultivated social life, with its vivid ripple of thought and feeling. . . . Tenderness when it is playful, and playfulness when it is tender, are both perfectly given in this charming little book, which contains also an exquisite sense of natural beauty.”—Spectator.

DITTO, second edition, 1874. Same binding as first edition, but red.

One poem in first edition is omitted from this, viz., The Bookworm, which, though included in the first six editions of At the Sign of the Lyre, has been omitted from subsequent collections, but two others are added, viz., A Short Vacation, p. 129, and Love's Quest, p. 208. The former has never been included in any subsequent collection ; the latter not until the issue of Collected Poems, 1897, in which it re-appears for the first time at p. 178. The “L'Envoi” to “Dorothy” was omitted in this edition, but again restored in Old World Idylls, 1883. Also, the verses on the reverse of dedication of the first edition are here placed on the last page, while extracts from reviews are printed on the reverse of half-title.

DITTO, third edition, 1875. Same binding as second edition.

Exact reprint of second edition.

(II.) PROVERBS IN PORCELAIN. 1877.

PROVERBS IN PORCELAIN / AND OTHER VERSES. / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON. / “Majores majora sonent.” / HENRY S. KING & CO., LONDON. / 1877.

Cr. 8vo. Pp. x. + 210. Brown cloth, lettered on back and side, edges untrimmed.

Collation: Half title, with advertisement on reverse of "Vignettes in Rhyme," 1 leaf; title, "The Rights of Translation and of Reproduction are reserved" on reverse, 1 leaf; dedicatory poem to Frederick Locker, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 2 leaves, reverse of second blank; the poems, 98 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; notes, 4 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; "Some opinions of the Press on 'Vignettes in Rhyme,'" 3 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank. At the end is the publishers' list of 36 pp. Published June 16th, 1877.

One piece—"Apple Blossoms"—in this volume has never been reprinted. For other pieces omitted from subsequent collections see note to second edition.

"Another volume of 'golden apples.' . . . He (the author) sings in triolets and rondels and rondeaus with the ease that a bird warbles its own wood-notes."—Westminster Review.

"One of the most exquisitely delightful of books. If Mr. Austin Dobson writes nothing but the two volumes he has already given to the world, he will have an enduring place of his own in poetic literature."—Contemporary Review.

"His verses do exactly what they aim at doing, and many of them can hardly be excelled for gaiety, music, mastery of rhyme, and happy balance of sense and sentiment."—Pall Mall Gazette.

"The author has amply fulfilled the promise he gave a long while ago of extraordinary excellence in the field he has chosen."—Illustrated London News.

DITTO, second edition, C. Kegan Paul & Co., 1878. Cr. 8vo. Pp. viii. + 216. Blue cloth, different design from first edition, edges untrimmed.

Collation: Half title, with "Some Notices of the First Edition" on reverse, 1 leaf; title with "The Rights," &c. on reverse, 1 leaf; dedicatory lines to Frederick Locker, with verses on reverse, 1 leaf; contents, 1 leaf; the poems, 102 leaves; notes, 4 leaves, reverse of last leaf having printers' imprint; "Some Opinions of the Press on 'Vignettes in Rhyme,'" 2 leaves. Bound at end is a 32 pp. catalogue of the publishers' publications. Messrs. C. Kegan Paul & Co. took over the publishing business of Messrs. Henry S. King & Co.

Contains some pieces not in first edition, viz., 'A Loyall Ballade of the Armada' 'A Quartet from Horace,' ("O Fons Bandusiae!," "Vitas Hinnuleo," "Persicos Odi," "Tu ne Quaesieris,"), and 'The Ballad of Prose and Rhyme.' The piece entitled "'Old Clo,'" in first edition, is here called "'Premiers Amours,'" the title under which it first appeared in St. Paul's Magazine, Sept., 1873. The two pieces printed in first ed. under the title 'Emblemata Amoris' are here entitled 'Emblems.' Of the Rondels and Rondeaus [so spelt in this book] in the first edition, "'Too Hard it is to Sing,'" is printed here as a prefatory poem, but has never been reprinted. "'You Bid me Try" is relegated to the notes, "on the ground" (to quote from an article by Mr. Davenport Adams in The Bookman—On the Poetry of Austin Dobson) "that it is an adaptation from the French, and a species of poetical 'exercise'." And in all subsequent collections it has occupied the same position, while "When Finis Comes," which in the first edition was printed at the end, is in this placed amongst the Rondels and Rondeaux. In Old World Idylls, and Poems on Several Occasions (Vol. 1) it is again printed at the end, as an 'envoi,' but in Collected Poems, 1897, it is once more placed amongst the rondeaux under 'Essays in Old French Forms.' Another rondeau, "'To You I Sing,'" has been made very familiar as the prefatory poem to every subsequent collection except the English and American At the Sign of the Lyre. Two of the "Rondels and Rondeaux"—'Change' and 'Fair'—which appeared in first edition as well as here, have never been reprinted. Three of the 'Rose Leaves' ('These are Leaves of my Rose,' "'Amari Aliquid,'" and 'Old Loves'), and the "huitain," "Love's Farewell," which appeared here and in the first edition, have not been reprinted in later English collections, though they were reprinted in the American Vignettes in Rhyme (next described). This edition also has "Some notices of the first edition" on reverse of half title. The residue of this edition was destroyed by the great fire at the publishers'.

(III.) VIGNETTES IN RHYME AND OTHER VERSES. 1880.

VIGNETTES IN RHYME / AND OTHER VERSES / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / "Majores majora sonent" / [publishers' device] / NEW YORK / HENRY HOLT AND COMPANY / 1880.*

Crown 8vo. Pp. xx. + 278. Cloth gilt, gilt edges.

Collation: One blank leaf; title, with notice as to contents on reverse, 1 leaf; dedication to Professor Oliver Wendell Holmes, reverse blank, 1 leaf; introduction by Edmund C. Stedman, 5 leaves, with verses on reverse of last leaf; contents, 2 leaves; sub title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; the poems, 139 leaves; 1 blank leaf.

This is not identical with the volume published in England under the same title, as the following notice testifies:—"The verses in this volume are selected by the Author for this edition, and, with some few exceptions, are from VIGNETTES IN RHYME, 1873, and PROVERBS IN PORCELAIN, 1877."

DITTO, reprinted, 1885.

(IV.) OLD-WORLD IDYLLS. 1883.

Old-World / IDYLLS / AND OTHER VERSES / By / AUSTIN DOBSON / *Apollineæ bellum
puerile pharetra* / [publishers' device] / LONDON / KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH & CO. / MDCCCLXXXIII.

Elzevir 8vo. Pp. x. + 250. Sage green cloth, lettered on back and side, top edge gilt, others untrimmed.

Collation : Note about contents, reverse blank, 1 leaf (this, though forming part of signature 'A,' is not numbered with the preliminary leaves); half-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; title in red and black, reverse blank, 1 leaf; (dedicatory poem) reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 2 leaves; sub-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; the poems, 122 leaves, with verses on reverse of last leaf; advertisement of work "by the same author" ("In preparation, At the Sign of the Lyre"), reverse blank, 1 leaf; printers' imprint, reverse blank, 1 leaf; 1 blank leaf. Published Nov. 3rd, 1883.

This is substantially a reprint, though newly arranged, of the American volume issued in 1880 by Messrs. Henry Holt and Co., under the title Vignettes in Rhyme and other Verses (described immediately above); but the following pieces, which appeared in that work, were omitted in this:—At the Convent Gate, The Curf's Progress, An old Fish Pond, A Chapter of Froissart, A Revolutionary Relic, A Sonnet in Dialogue, Love's Farewell, The Ballad of the Barmecide, and three of the 'Rose Leaves.' (These were all included in the next volume, At the Sign of the Lyre, 1885, except Love's Farewell and the three 'Rose Leaves,' which have never since been reprinted.) And two pieces which are not in the American book are added to this, viz., On a Nankin Plate, and "O Navis." The only pieces other than those from Vignettes in Rhyme (London), 1873, and Proverbs in Porcelain, 1877, are 'As to the pipe with rhythmic feet' (prefixed to the "Essays in Old French Forms"), 'The Wanderer,' 'To Ethel,' "Vixi Puellis," 'On a Nankin Plate,' 'For a Copy of Theocritus,' 'On a Fan,' 'The Ballad of Imitation,' "O Navis," and 'The Dance of Death.'

Collation: Same as previous editions up to page 246. Then come:—Title to notes, reverse blank, 1 leaf; notes, 2 leaves. The frontispiece faces title, tailpiece faces p. 252. At p. 251 (notes) is the "Pocket Version" which was appended to "Davus, I detest," when it first appeared in Proverbs in Porcelain, second edition, 1878; and at page 252 the paraphrase of Voiture, "You bid me try, BLUE-EYES, to write."

DITTO, eleventh edition, 1893. Protected by printed paper wrapper.

Some idea of the increasing popularity of Mr. Dobson's poems may be gathered from the notice on reverse of half-title of this edition, which reads:—"FIRST EDITION (500), 1883. Eleventh edition (2,000), 1892." Except that the preliminary leaf is left blank, collation is same as tenth ed.

The size and binding of all the subsequent editions are uniform with the first edition.

This book will not be reprinted. See Notes (p. 512) to Collected Poems, 1897, which volume includes the contents of this and At the Sign of the Lyre.

(V.) AT THE SIGN OF THE LYRE (American Edition). 1885.

AT THE SIGN OF THE LYRE / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / —leviore plectro / [Publishers' device.] / NEW YORK / HENRY HOLT AND COMPANY / 1885.

Crown 8vo. Pp. x. + 240. Old gold cloth gilt, lettered back and side, gilt edges.

Collation: One blank leaf; Advertisement of Austin Dobson's poems, reverse blank, 1 leaf; title, with note as to contents on reverse, 1 leaf; poetical dedication to E. C. Stedman, with verses on reverse, 1 leaf; contents, 2 leaves; sub-title, 1 leaf, reverse blank; the work, 116 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; title to notes, reverse blank, 1 leaf; notes, 2 leaves; epilogue, reverse blank, 1 leaf.

In this edition there are 13 pieces not included in the English volume, viz., "O Navis," "On a Nankin Plate, and the "Dixain" ('As to the pipe with rhythmic feet'), which had appeared in Old World Idylls, 1883, the last-named as a prefatory poem to the 'Essays in Old French Forms'; "Notes of a Honey-moon"; "The Street Singer"; "You Bid Me Try"; "To Brander Mattheys" ('In vain to-day I scrape and blot'); "To H. C. Bunner" ('Witness my hand and seal thereto'); "To George H. Boughton" ('Spring stirs and wakes by holt and hill'); "To Richard Watson Gilder" ('Old friends are best! And so to you'); "To Lawrence Barrett" ('When Burbadge played'); "To Laurence Hutton" ('There is no "mighty purpose" in this book'); and [Dedication] "To Edmund Clarence Stedman" ('No need to-day that we commend'). Those marked with an asterisk have not been reprinted. The poems which appear in this edition under the respective titles, A Sermon in Stone, and To J. S., are in the English volume, entitled respectively To an Unknown Bust in the British Museum, and "A Sabine Farm."

(VI.) AT THE SIGN OF THE LYRE (English Edition). 1885.

At the Sign / of The Lyre / By / AUSTIN DOBSON / leviore plectro / [Publishers' device] / LONDON / KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH & CO. / MDCCCLXXXV.

Elzevir 8vo. Pp. x. + 232. Front. by E. A. Abbey, bookplate at end, by A. P.[arsons].
Sage green cloth, lettered on back and side, gilt top, other edges untrimmed.

Collation : Notice as to contents, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; half-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; frontispiece ; title, in red and black, with notice as to rights of translation, &c. on reverse, 1 leaf ; dedication to Edwin A. Abbey and Alfred Parsons, with verses on reverse, 1 leaf ; contents, 2 leaves ; sub-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; the work, 111 leaves ; title to notes, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; notes, 3 leaves, "L'Envoi" on reverse of last leaf ; bookplate, reverse blank, 1 leaf. Published Nov. 14th, 1885.

The contents of this volume differ from those of the American book with same title, though this would not be inferred from the author's reference to the two books in the notes to Collected Poems, 1897, where he says (page 511), "—in 1885 a second volume, entitled At the Sign of the Lyre, and mainly composed of later pieces, made its appearance, both at London and New York." In this there are the following 18 pieces, which are not in the New York edition :—The seven pieces, which were not reprinted in Old World Idylls, 1883, from Vignettes in Rhyme and other Verses, 1880, and which are enumerated under the former (q. v.) ; Household Art ; A Fancy from Fontenelle ; Charles George Gordon ; Victor Hugo ; The Maltworm's Madrigal ; A New Song of the Spring Gardens ; Of his Mistress ; The Nameless Charm ; To Phidyle ; To a June Rose ; To Daffodils. And, as stated under the American edition, that volume contains 13 pieces not included in this.

IDEM, large paper. Cr. 8vo. Hand-made paper. Wrappers, edges untrimmed. Has, prefixed, a blank leaf, and also an extra leaf, with this notice :—

"The large paper edition of this volume, consisting of seventy-five copies, twenty-five of which are for America, all being numbered and signed, was printed in October, 1885. This is No. [Author's autograph]."

This edition, though in the same form as the previous five, is considerably altered in contents. Five pieces which are in the first edition are omitted, viz., The Bookworm, The Jessamy Bride, The Virgin with the Bells*, "Poor Miss Tox," L'Envoi* ('About the ending of the Ramadan') [The two marked with an asterisk are again restored in Poems on Several Occasions, 1895, vol. II., pp. 155 and 247, and in Collected Poems, pp. 347 and 435], and twelve additional pieces inserted, viz., A Song to the Lute, To the Mammoth Tortoise, A Broken Sword, A Dialogue (Alexander Pope), The Toyman, The Climacteric, The Screen in the Lumber Room, To his Book, For a Copy of Herrick, To a Pastoral Poet, "When Burbadge Played," Prologue and Epilogue to Abbey's edition of "She Stoops to Conquer." At the end, also, are the alternative titles and half-titles as noted above.

SELECTED POEMS / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / "Majores majora sonent" / LEIPZIG HEINEMANN AND BALESTIER / LIMITED, LONDON / 1892.

"The English Library" Series. Cr. 8vo. Pp. 320. In a buff paper cover.

Collation: Half-title, "Copyright Edition" on reverse, 1 leaf; title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; author's preface, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 2 leaves; dedicatory verses, "To you I sing," reverse blank, 1 leaf; sub-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; the poems, 151 leaves, epilogue, "In after days," on reverse of last leaf; notes, 2 leaves. At the end is catalogue of "The English Library," 4 leaves. The cover has the following notice printed thereon:—The Volumes of the English Library are published by arrangement with the Authors, and enjoy Copyright in all Continental countries, but may not be introduced into Great Britain, Ireland, or the British Colonies.

Two poems, viz., "The Poet's Seat" and "The Noble Patron," were here reprinted for the first time. In Collected Poems the author states that these two poems were first reprinted in Poems on Several Occasions, 1895, but he probably omits purposely any reference to this volume, as it was printed for Continental readers solely.

(X.) BALLAD OF BEAU BROCADE. 1892.

The Ballad of Beau Brocade | and | other Poems | of the xviiith Century | by | Austin Dobson | with | fifty Illustrations | by | Hugh Thomson | [device] London | Kegan Paul, | Trench | Trübner | & Co. | MDCCCXCII.

Collation: Half title, with list of works "by the same author" on reverse, 1 leaf; frontispiece; title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; dedicatory poem to Lady Bowen [the author's cousin, since deceased], reverse blank, 1 leaf; prefatory note, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, reverse blank, 1 leaf; list of illustrations, 2 leaves, reverse of second blank; sub title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; the poems, 42 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; title to notes, reverse blank, 1 leaf; notes, 2 leaves, reverse of second blank; printers' imprint, reverse blank, 1 leaf. Beside the frontispiece there are 25 full-page plates, the position of which is noted in the List of Illustrations (the rest of the illustrations are in the text).

IDEM, decorated ruby cloth, top edge gilt, other edges untrimmed. With paper wrapper.

IDEM, large paper. Royal 8vo. Printed on hand-made paper, the full-page plates on Japanese vellum, and the other illustrations on Japanese paper inlaid in the text. White buckram, lettered on back, edges untrimmed.

Collation: Same as small paper edition, except that prefixed are (1.) a facsimile of the cloth cover, reverse blank, 1 leaf: (2) 1 leaf (reverse blank) with this notice—The Large Paper Edition of this Volume, consisting of 250 copies for England, 200 copies for America, all of which are numbered, was printed in October, 1892. This is No. —; while the list of works by same author is omitted from reverse of half title.

There are two peculiarities in the earliest issues of the first edition of this book which should be noted. In the first copies printed the sixth line of the introductory rondeau reads, 'The long day lengthens,' and the Beau's skirt in the plate facing page 18 has a bulging line. In the next copies the line reads, 'Life's journey lengthens,' and the bulging line is still found. The last copies give the later reading of the sixth line, and the bulge is removed. The large paper copies are of the third issue, which explodes a 'popular delusion' that the 'large paper proofs' are always the first copies struck off. As a matter of fact, the secrets of publishers' and printers' offices will generally reveal that they are the last! The second and third editions are, of course, like the third issue. The alteration of the sixth line of the above rondeau is one among many examples of the fluctuation of Mr. Dobson's self-criticisms—for in his Collected Poems, 1897, where this rondeau is reprinted under the title, 'Léal Souvenir,' he restores the original reading of the line—'The long day lengthens.'

(XI.) PROVERBS IN PORCELAIN AND AU REVOIR. 1893.

PROVERBS IN PORCELAIN / TO WHICH IS ADDED / "AU REVOIR" / A DRAMATIC VIGNETTE / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / "Rien en relief" / LONDON / KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH, TRÜBNER, & CO, LTD. / PATERNOSTER HOUSE, CHARING CROSS ROAD / 1893.

Crown 8vo. Pp. 116, including 25 illustrations by Bernard Partridge. Decorated cherry-coloured cloth, gilt edges. With paper wrapper reproducing design on cover.

Collation : Half title, with list of works "by the same author," on reverse, 1 leaf; frontispiece, reverse blank, 1 leaf; illustrated title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; dedication to Charles B. Foote, reverse blank, 1 leaf; prefatory note, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, reverse blank, 1 leaf; first of illustrations, 1 leaf; the poems and illustrations, 47 leaves; illustrated title to notes, reverse blank, 1 leaf; notes, reverse blank, 1 leaf; printers' imprint, reverse blank, 1 leaf.

This is a different work from that under a similar title which precedes it, containing in fact merely the six 'Proverbs in Porcelain' from that work (which had afterwards been reprinted in Old World Idylls), and 'Au Revoir' from At the Sign of the Lyre.

DEM, decorated myrtle-green cloth, top edge gilt, others untrimmed. With paper wrapper as in preceding.

DEM, large paper. Royal 8vo. Hand-made paper, the full-page plates printed on Japanese vellum, and the vignettes on Japanese paper mounted. White buckram, lettered on back, edges untrimmed. On reverse of half title instead of list of works, "by the same author," is this notice:—

∴ The Large Paper Edition of this Volume, consisting of 175 Copies for England, 75 Copies for America, All of which are numbered, was printed in November, 1893. This is No.—

(XII.) STORY OF ROSINA. 1894.

The Story of Rosina / and / other Verses / by / Austin Dobson / Illustrated / by / Hugh Thomson / [device] / London / Kegan Paul, / Trench, / Trübner, / & Co. / MDCCCXCV.

Crown 8vo. Pp. xvi. + 120. With 49 illustrations. Decorated myrtle-green cloth gilt edges. With a paper wrapper repeating design of cover.

Collation : Half-title, list of books by same author on reverse, 1 leaf; frontispiece; title, printer's imprint on reverse, 1 leaf; poetical dedication, reverse blank, 1 leaf; preface, 1 leaf; contents reverse blank, 1 leaf; list of illustrations, 2 leaves, reverse of second blank; sub-title, reverse blank 1 leaf; the poems, 58 leaves, reverse of last blank; title to notes, reverse blank, 1 leaf; notes, 1 leaf. There are 31 plates excluding frontispiece, the position of which is indicated in the List of Illustrations, besides 17 illustrations in the text. Published Nov., 1895.

IDEM, decorated ruby cloth, gilt top, other edges untrimmed. With paper wrapper, as in preceding.

IDEM, large paper. Imp. 8vo. White buckram, lettered on back, edges untrimmed.

The variations from the small edition are—(1) a blank leaf and an extra leaf containing this notice: This Edition, limited to 250 Copies, all of which are numbered, was printed in November, 1894. This is No.—, with portrait of Austin Dobson in miniature added, reverse blank; (2) an extra half-title, reverse blank; (3) extra leaf giving reproduction of cover design, reverse blank; (4) the poetical dedication is illustrated and engraved instead of merely printed.

(XIII.) POEMS ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS (English Edition). 1895.

POEMS / ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / NEW EDITION REVISED AND EN-LARGED / With Illustrations / IN TWO VOLUMES / VOL. I. [II.] / LONDON / KEGAN
PAUL, TRENCH, TRÜBNER, & CO. LTD. / MDCCCXCV.

2 vols. Cr. 8vo. Pp. xii. + 274 and x. + 276. With portrait by W. Strang, and 7 etchings by Ad. Lalauze. Decorated electric-blue watered silk-cloth gilt, lettered on back and side, edges untrimmed.

Collation : Vol. I., half-title, with this notice on reverse : Of this Edition, on Deckle Edge Paper, with Etchings on Handmade Paper, Seven Hundred and Fifty Copies were printed for England and America No. —, 1 leaf ; portrait ; title, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; publishers' note, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; dedicatory verses, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; contents, 2 leaves ; sub-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; the poems, 133 leaves ; title to notes, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; notes, 2 leaves ; 1 blank leaf ; Vol. II., 1 blank leaf ; half-title, notice on reverse, 1 leaf ; frontispiece ; title, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; verses, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; contents, 2 leaves ; sub-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; the poems, 132 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank ; verses, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; title to notes, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; notes, 3 leaves. The other illustrations face pp. 32, 148, 210, and 248, in Vol. I. ; and pp. 10 and 136, Vol. II.

These two volumes contain all the verses in the tenth edition of Old World Idylls, and the seventh edition of At the Sign of the Lyre—the two editions for which the extra titles, 'Poems on Several Occasions,' are provided at the end of the latter—except one in the latter, "A Sabine Farm"; and also the following, which had not previously been collected, with the exception of those starred (which appeared in the Leipzig volume—Selected Poems), 'A Greeting,' 'After Watteau,' 'The Water of Gold,' *'The Poet's Seat,' 'Alfred, Lord Tennyson,' 'The Virgin with the Bells,' *'The Noble Patron,' 'With a Volume of Verse,' 'For the Avery "Knickerbocker,"' "Sat est Scripsisse,"' 'Prologue and Epilogue to Abbey's "Quiet Life."' Here for the first time all the pieces written in the French forms are brought together.

IDEM, hand-made paper edition. Post 8vo. Fawn-coloured buckram, with different design on cover, lettered on back and side, on reverse of half-title this notice : Of this Edition, on Handmade Paper, with Proof Impressions of the Etchings, Two Hundred Copies were printed for England and America. No. —

The etchings have "remarques," and the portrait has Mr. Dobson's autograph, in pencil. This edition had its origin in America, and, in addition to the above two forms, Messrs. Dodd, Mead & Company, of New York, issued the following :—

[IDEM, printed on Japan paper. Etchings in two states, and all signed by the artist. Only 50 copies.*]

[IDEM, printed on Japan paper. Etchings, with remarque. Only 50 copies.]

The variations in collation are only slight :—(I.) The notices on reverse of half-titles run as follows—Of this Edition, on Japan Paper, having Etchings with Remarque, Fifty Copies were printed. No. —. (II.) The imprint on titles reads—NEW YORK: DODD, MEAD / AND COMPANY 1895, and they have the following notice on reverses—Copyright, 1895, / BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY. / All rights reserved. (III.) The illustration, which is placed as a frontispiece to Vol. II. of the English edition, is here placed in its proper position. The binding is vellum, with the design which decorates the cloth copy mentioned above, worked in gold and green.

(XIV.) VERSES AT THE OMAR KHAYYAM CLUB. 1897.

Verses / read at the Dinner of the / Omar Khayyám Club / on Thursday, 25th March, 1897 / By / Austin Dobson / [Printer's Mark] London / Printed at the Chiswick Press / MDCCCXCVII.*

Crown octavo. Pp. 12. Issued in a buff paper wrapper, with untrimmed edges, with copy of the title printed in red ink on the front page. Printed on hand-made paper.

Collation: Half-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; title in red and black, on reverse [All Rights Reserved], 1 leaf; Note: "The Edition of this Poem, consisting of one hundred copies (the first three copies only being on Japanese vellum), was printed for EDMUND GÖSSE, in March, 1897, to be presented to the members of the Omar Khayyám Club as a memento of his Presidency. This is No. —," quotations on reverse, 1 leaf; the poem, 3 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank.

(XV.) COLLECTED POEMS. 1897.

COLLECTED / POEMS / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / WITH A PORTRAIT / Majores majora sonent /
LONDON / KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH, TRÜBNER & CO., LTD. / PATERNOSTER HOUSE, CHARING CROSS ROAD / 1897.

Crown 8vo. Pp. xvi. + 528. With a photogravure portrait of the author. Crimson cloth, lettered on back, top edge gilt, other edges untrimmed.

Collation : Half-title, advertisement of "previous issues" on reverse, 1 leaf; portrait; title in red and black, printers' imprint, &c., on reverse, 1 leaf; preface, reverse blank, 1 leaf; prologue ('To you I sing'), reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 4 leaves, reverse of last blank; the work, 253 leaves; epilogue ('In After Days'), reverse blank, 1 leaf; title to 'Notes,' reverse blank, 1 leaf; notes, 9 leaves, reverse of last blank.

This may be considered the author's final edition of his poems. In the preface he says, "This volume comprises all the verses written by me during the last thirty years which—in my opinion—seem worthy of preservation." It contains nine more pieces than the Poems on Several Occasions, 2 vols., 1895, viz., Love's Quest [reprinted for the first time from Vignettes in Rhyme (3rd ed.)], The Collector to his Library, A Postscript to "Retaliation" (Samuel Johnson), A City Flower (this was the author's first contribution to a magazine, appearing in Temple Bar, Dec., 1864, and being reprinted in Vignettes in Rhyme, 1873), To One who Bids me Sing, Dedication of "The Story of Rosina" (which, of course, appeared previously in that volume), Prologue to Eighteenth Century Vignettes (Third Series), Epilogue to Eighteenth Century Vignettes (Second Series)—which, besides appearing in that book, was printed previously in Longman's Magazine, May, 1894, under the title, Apologia pro Scriptis Suis, Léal Souvenir (which appeared as the dedication to The Ballad of Beau Brocade). The 'Notes' are fuller than in previous volumes, and in several cases give interesting bibliographical and personal information, and with them are preserved the following verses:—Dedication of Proverbs in Porcelain, "To Frederick Locker"; The "Pocket Version" of "Persicos Odi" which was appended to that piece when it first appeared in the second edition of Proverbs in Porcelain; the paraphrase of Voiture, "You bid me try, BLUE-EYES, to write," which appeared in the first edition of that book; and Verses to the late Lord De Tabley, commencing, "Still may the Muses foster thee, O Friend," which Mr. Gosse reprinted in his Critical Kit-Cats, 1896.

"This collected edition—substantial yet excellently light, agreeable to the eye and touch, and appropriately 'Simplex munditiis'—ought greatly to enhance his popularity. Among living English poets Mr. Dobson holds an unobtrusive but uncontested place. In his own sphere he is without a rival. We quarrel over the merits of this poet and that, but Mr. Dobson's delicate talent commands the esteem of all who know literary craftsmanship when they see it. His work may appeal more to some people than to others; no one, perhaps, can share it to the full who does not share his love for the Eighteenth Century. But even those who take scant pleasure in it are forced to confess its polish and felicity of form, its unfailing humanity and refinement of spirit. Mr. Dobson would be the first to disclaim for a great deal of his work the august name of poetry. Much of it is only rhyming, but rhyming in its perfection."—Daily Chronicle.

DITTO, second edition, 1897. Exact reprint of preceding.

DITTO, third edition, 1898.

There are two slight alterations in this edition :—(1) The advertisement on reverse of half-title is altered, and includes the new edition of 'William Hogarth'; (2) A French motto is printed on the reverse of dedicatory verses.

"A great deal of honest work has been put into Mr. Dobson's book. It is chiefly biographical, and its dates have been verified with scrupulous care. It possesses the indispensable and rare merit of accuracy."—Examiner.

(II.) HOGARTH [Great Artists]. 1879.

"The whole world without Art would be one great wilderness" / HOGARTH / BY AUSTIN
 DOBSON / [device] / LONDON : / SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON, SEARLE & RIVINGTON, / CROWN BUILDINGS, FLEET STREET. / 1879.

"The Great Artists'" Series. Crown 8vo. Pp. xii. + 128. With 16 full-page plates and 4 woodcuts. Blue cloth, lettered back and side, cut edges.

Collation : Half-title, list of the Illustrated Biographies of the Great Artists on reverse, 1 leaf ; portrait :
 title, printers' imprint, &c., on reverse, 1 leaf ; preface, 1 leaf ; contents, 1 leaf ; list of illustrations, note about the same on reverse, 1 leaf ; bibliography, 1 leaf ; the work, 64 leaves.

"We have already noticed several of these popular biographies. The best of the three now before us is Mr. Dobson's sketch of the most powerful of the old English moralist painters. There may not be anything new in Mr. Dobson's book, but he has arranged the old materials neatly, and with honourable acknowledgments, availed himself of the most recent researches."—Athenæum.

DITTO [second edition], 1883.

In this edition there are several slight variations from the first edition, e.g., this was printed by R. Clay, Sons, and Taylor, while the first was printed at the Chiswick Press. The contents occupy 1 page instead of 2, the reverse being blank; the note about the illustrations is at the foot of the page instead of on the reverse, and the reverse in this is blank; the bibliography occupies 1 page instead of 2, the reverse being blank; the "decoration" on page 110 is different.

DITTO, 1890. A reprint of the 1883 issue.

(III.) FIELDING [English Men of Letters]. 1883.

FIELDING / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / London: / MACMILLAN AND CO. / 1883. / The Right of Translation and Reproduction is Reserved.

"English Men of Letters" Series. Crown 8vo. Pp. xii. + 196. Crimson cloth, lettered back and side, cut edges.

Collation: Half title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; prefatory note, 3 leaves, reverse of last blank; contents, 1 leaf, reverse blank; the work, 98 leaves. At end is publishers' list, 2 leaves.

"Mr. Dobson's sketch of Fielding's life is thoroughly loving and sympathetic, as well as thoroughly honest, and not without reason, for despite the irregularities of his early youth, Fielding was emphatically a lovable man. . . . Mr Dobson outlines Fielding's erratic and diversified career, which was as erratic and diversified as that of any of his heroes with a free hand, and gives the most graphic portrait of the man, and the best bibliographical and critical account of his writings that have yet appeared on a scale so reduced."—Harper's Magazine.

IDEM, white cloth, paper label, edges untrimmed.

[DITTO, New York: Harper & Brothers.*]

DITTO, second edition, 1889. Crimson paper covers, edges untrimmed.

Contains Appendices of 9 pp. not in first edition.

IDEM, stone-coloured cloth, edges trimmed.

There is also another edition of 'English Men of Letters,' issued 3 vols. in 1, and the above is contained in Vol. 9, the other two being Thackeray and Dickens.

(IV.) BEWICK AND HIS PUPILS. 1884.

THOMAS BEWICK / AND HIS PUPILS / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / [vignette] / WITH NINETY-FIVE ILLUSTRATIONS / LONDON / CHATTO AND WINDUS, PICCADILLY / 1884.

Cr. 8vo. Pp. xviii. + 232. Decorated French-grey cloth, lettered on back, gilt top, other edges trimmed.

Collation: Half-title, quotation from Bishop Andrewes on reverse, 1 leaf; portrait, title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; dedication to W. J. Linton, reverse blank, 1 leaf; preface, 2 leaves; contents, 1 leaf; list of illustrations, 3 leaves; the work, 111 leaves, vignette on reverse of last leaf; appendix, 3 leaves, vignette on reverse of last leaf; index, 2 leaves; at end are (1) an announcement of a new edition of Bewick's Works, 1 leaf; (2) Chatto and Windus's List of Books, 16 leaves. Sixteen of the illustrations, as well as the frontispiece, are page plates, and not numbered in the text.

"Written with all the author's delicacy and finish of style."—Contemporary Review.

"Mr. Dobson's high appreciation of Bewick, and his innate love of art, together with his literary power, combine to make his book an extremely pleasant one for the reader. His command of language never leads him either into prosiness or into fine writing. He has access to the best sources of information now available, and gives us many facts not previously known. Mr. Dobson's little volume is not only pleasant reading, but will be of great use to the collector and the student, as it affords much assistance in identifying the engravers."—Saturday Review.

IDEM, large paper. 4to. Half parchment, paper label, edges untrimmed, with the following notice on an extra leaf (reverse blank):—ÉDITION DE LUXE. Only Two hundred Copies of this Édition de luxe have been printed, One hundred and Ten for sale in England, and Ninety for sale in America. This is No. — of the Edition for England.

[DITTO, Boston: James R. Osgood & Company. 1884.]

Evidently this issue consisted of part of the English edition, with altered title page.

DITTO, a new edition [the second] 1889.

An exact reprint of first edition, the only differences being that it does not contain the announcement of a new edition of Bewick's Works, and it is untrimmed in the binding.

(V.) STEELE [English Worthies]. 1886.

English Worthies / EDITED BY ANDREW LANG / RICHARD STEELE / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / LONDON / LONGMANS, GREEN, AND CO. / 1886 / All rights reserved.

Cr. 8vo. Pp. viii. + 240. French-grey cloth, lettered back and side, edges untrimmed.

Collation: Half-title, with printers' imprint on reverse, 1 leaf; title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; prefatory note, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, reverse blank, 1 leaf; the work, 117 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; index, 3 leaves.

DITTO [second edition?], 1888. Blue cloth, lettered back and side, edges untrimmed.

Though printed by a different firm, this is evidently a reprint from the plates of the first edition, which can be ascertained by a comparison of the first "d" in "indebted," second line from bottom of page 120.

IDEM, pictorial paper covers, cut edges.

(VI.) GOLDSMITH [Great Writers]. 1888.

LIFE / OF / OLIVER GOLDSMITH / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / LONDON / WALTER SCOTT / 24 WARWICK LANE, PATERNOSTER ROW / 1888 / (All rights reserved.)

"Great Writers" series. Cr. 8vo. Pp. 214 + xxiv. Red cloth, cut edges.*

Collation: Half title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 3 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; the life, 96 leaves; appendix, 2 leaves; index, 4 leaves; bibliography, by John P. Anderson, 12 leaves. At the end are 3 leaves of publisher's announcements. Though dated 1888, was really published 15th Dec., 1887.

"The story of his literary and social life in London, with all its humorous and pathetic vicissitudes, is here re-told, as none could tell it better."—Daily News.

IDEM, dark blue cloth, lettered on back, edges untrimmed.

IDEM, large paper. Demy 8vo. Dark blue cloth, lettered on back, gilt top, other edges untrimmed.

IDEM, reprint of first edition from same plates (as is evidenced by malformation of letter S in "verse" in last line of page 31) on rather better paper. Ruby cloth, gilt top.

At the end of this edition is an errata slip which applies equally to the preceding.

(VII.) FOUR FRENCHWOMEN. 1890.

FOUR FRENCHWOMEN / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / [publishers' device] / London / CHATTO & WINDUS, PICCADILLY / 1890.

Fcap 8vo. Pp. viii. + 208. Half roan, Roxburgh style, lettered on back, edges untrimmed.

Collation: Title, printers' imprint on reverse, 1 leaf; dedication, reverse blank, 1 leaf; prefatory note contents on reverse, 1 leaf; sub-title, verses on reverse, 1 leaf; the work, 104 leaves, reverse of last blank.

The casual reader of the "prefatory note," which speaks of "reprinting these papers" and the revision needed from "lap of time," would hardly imagine that the work is one of the very earliest of Mr. Dobson's writings. Published in The Englishwoman's Domestic Magazine in 1866, it lay hidden in those almost forgotten pages, unknown perhaps to even his most ardent admirers, till 1890. That, after the lapse of a quarter of a century, papers in a magazine can be reprinted almost verbatim, and run through four or five editions, is surely a lesson to publishers of magazines to reprint the contributions of authors who have since "made a name," rather than print the productions of new and unknown authors.

of doubtful genius. The first three papers, "Mademoiselle de Corday," "Madame Roland," and "The Princess de Lamballe," are, in the magazine, unsigned; the last one, "Madame de Genlis," is signed H. A. D. (Vide English-woman's Domestic Magazine, under the date 1866, in Part II.)

"It is many months since we came across a book that gave us so much pleasure. . . . Everyone should read it; but he should not lend it to his friends, for of a certainty he will not get it back again."—Athenaeum.

"These short biographical papers have a care and finish which often suggest comparison with Mr. Dobson's Villanelles. They are a sort of cameos from eighteenth century memoirs; and no praise is much too good for them."—Speaker.

"Mr. Dobson here is like an exquisite genre painter, called upon to depict the darkest scenes of human tragedy. And the genre painter, it must be avowed, comes admirably out of the ordeal. The artist that is in Mr. Dobson shows himself quite equal to this new [oh, ignorant Academician!] task."—Academy.

IDEM, large hand-made paper. 4to. Half vellum, paper label, edges untrimmed. Differs from small paper in following particulars:—(i.) Has prefixed one blank leaf, and one leaf with this notice—Only Fifty copies of this LARGE-PAPER EDITION of FOUR FRENCH-WOMEN have been printed. This is No. — Austin Dobson [autograph], reverse blank; (ii.) a half-title, with printers' imprint on reverse, 1 leaf; (iii.) a portrait of Corday; (iv.) "contents" is printed separately, on one leaf, reverse blank, leaving reverse of 'prefatory note' blank. Besides these additions, title bears the words, "with a frontispiece," and reverse is blank; the "signatures" are also different. Though dated 1890, the large paper edition was not really issued till 1891.

DITTO, second edition, 1891.

IDEM, another issue, with portrait of Corday.

DITTO, "special paper edition," 1893, cr. 8vo, dark blue buckram, lettered on back, edges untrimmed.

The last is uniform with Eighteenth Century Vignettes.

This work was published in America by Messrs. Dodd, Mead & Co., and, I believe, the type was set there, and the English edition was printed from plates sent to England. This may account for the first edition differing somewhat in style from English books. The second edition has the alterations (ii.) and (iv.) noted above in connection with the large paper issue. The half-title, or bastard title, as it is termed by the older bibliographers, is not a feature of American books, and it is probable that in issuing the English edition the publishers did not at first notice its absence. The American editions are noted below :—

The "Giunta" series.

Collation: Half-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; portrait; title page, as follows :—FOUR FRENCHWOMEN / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / NEW YORK / DODD, MEAD, AND COMPANY / 1895, with the following imprint on reverse—UNIVERSITY PRESS : / JOHN WILSON AND SON, CAMBRIDGE, 1 leaf; dedication to Brander Matthews, reverse blank, 1 leaf; prefatory note, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, reverse blank, 1 leaf; sub-title, quotations on reverse, 1 leaf; the work, 104 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; 2 blank leaves.

[DITTO, illustrated edition. 8vo. With 14 photogravure portraits. Citron cloth, top edge gilt.]

The collation differs little from the preceding. The title-page, which is in red and black, runs as follows—FOUR FRENCHWOMEN / MADEMOISELLE DE CORDAY / MADAME ROLAND / THE PRINCESS DE LAMBALLE / MADAME DE GENLIS / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / Illustrated / NEW YORK / DODD, MEAD, AND COMPANY / PUBLISHERS. An extra leaf, with 'List of Illustrations,' follows the contents, reverse blank. The illustrations are as follows :—Mademoiselle de Corday (after Siccaldi), Marat, Assassination of Marat, Mlle. de Corday (after Hauer), Madame Roland, Buzot, Monsieur Roland, Madame Roland on the Scaffold, The Princess de Lamballe, Marie Antoinette and her Children, The Prison La Force, Madame de Genlis (young), Rousseau, Madame de Genlis (old). In other respects, the collation is same as preceding, the page merely having a larger margin.

(VIII.) HORACE WALPOLE. 1890.

HORACE WALPOLE / A MEMOIR / WITH AN APPENDIX OF BOOKS PRINTED AT THE / STRAWBERRY HILL PRESS / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / WITH ILLUSTRATIONS BY / PERCY AND LÉON MORAN / LONDON / JAMES R. OSGOOD, MC ILVAINE & CO. / 1890.

Royal 8vo. Pp. 370. Printed on Dickinson paper, half white cloth, lettered on back, edges untrimmed.

Collation: The following notice on a leaf, reverse blank:—"This edition, consisting of 4 copies on vellum, 5 copies on Van Gelder paper, 50 copies on Japan paper, 425 copies on Dickinson paper, was printed from type in the month of October, 1890. Theo. L. De Vinne & Co. This copy is No.——." [As the copies are numbered consecutively in the order named, the possessor can see which material his is printed on from that alone]; half title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; frontispiece; title, printers' imprint on reverse, 1 leaf; dedication, reverse blank, 1 leaf; the work, 165 leaves, cut on reverse of last leaf; title to appendix, reverse blank, 1 leaf; appendix, 9 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; title to index, reverse blank, 1 leaf; index, 5 leaves; 3 blank leaves. The illustrations, with the exception of the frontispiece, are numbered with the text.

"An excellent specimen of the literary monograph, excellent in substance, attractive in style."—Times.

"Those who desire to form a true estimate of Horace Walpole cannot do better than read Mr. Austin Dobson's delightful volume."—Spectator.

"A great deal has been written on Horace Walpole; but we almost think that this is the first study of him which is at once competent and fair."—Saturday Review.

ITEM, printed on vellum.*]

This book was issued also in America by Messrs. Dodd, Mead, and Company, of New York. No copies of the vellum or Van Gelder paper issues came to England, so that of those two styles none bear the English publishers' imprint. Of the other two styles the English publishers imported 10 Japan and 130 Dickinson paper.

DITTO, second edition, 1893. Cr. 8vo. Pp. xii. + 328. With 8 illustrations. Dark blue cloth, lettered on back, gilt top, other edges untrimmed. With printed paper wrapper.

Collation: Half-title, with "Some notices of the first edition" on reverse, 1 leaf; portrait of Walpole; vignette title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; title, with "second edition" on reverse, 1 leaf; prefatory note [relating to this edition], reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 3 leaves, reverse of last blank; the work, 147 leaves; title to appendix, reverse blank, 1 leaf; appendix, 10 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; title to index, reverse blank, 1 leaf; index, 5 leaves. The illustrations, in addition to the frontispiece portrait and the vignette (Strawberry Hill bookplate), are another portrait of Walpole, a view and two plans of Strawberry Hill, and two autograph letters.

IDEM, large paper. Demy 8vo. With the following notice on reverse of half-title, in place of 'notices of first edition':—"Only Fifty copies printed of this Edition on Large Paper, of which this copy is No.—." Half vellum, paper label, edges untrimmed.

At the end is a leaf of three additional title-labels to replace that on book when soiled.

(IX.) WILLIAM HOGARTH. 1891.

WILLIAM HOGARTH / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / "Vice, if it e'er can be abash'd, / must be or Ridicul'd, or Lash'd." / SWIFT. / LONDON / SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON AND COMPANY
LIMITED / ST. DUNSTON'S HOUSE, FETTER LANE / FLEET STREET, E.C. / 1891.

Royal 8vo. Pp. xiv. + 368. With 12 photogravures and 33 other full-page plates, besides 14 engravings in the text. Dark blue buckram, lettered on back, top edge gilt, others untrimmed.

Collation: One leaf, with "signature" A, reverse blank; half-title, quotations on reverse, 1 leaf; front.; title, printers' imprint on reverse, 1 leaf; dedication to Cosmo Monkhouse, reverse blank, 1 leaf; preface, 2 leaves; contents, 2 leaves; the work, 176 leaves; index, 8 leaves.

This is an extension of the volume in 'The Great Artists' series.

"The most complete and the best-arranged literary monument to a great English painter which exists. Stately but not unwieldy in its proportions . . . this volume in outward presence, as well as inward arrangement, may well be taken as a model for future biographies of British artists."—Illustrated London News.

"The book, as it stands, must be accepted as the most important and valuable work yet issued on the subject, making another treatise almost impossible. It is the author's tribute to the genius of the painter, and a testimony to his own powers as a writer and a critic."—Magazine of Art.

"Mr. Dobson has succeeded in finally producing a biography so just and discriminating, so complete and exhaustive, that it is safe to predict for it the position of a standard work."—Critic (New York).

IDEM, large paper. Imperial 8vo. Half vellum, paper label, edges untrimmed.

The variations from the ordinary edition are—(1) On the reverse of the first leaf is this notice : “ Only One Hundred copies printed for England (Nos. 1 to 100), and Fifty copies for America (Nos. 101 to 150). Of One Hundred and Fifty copies printed this is No. —. Austin Dobson [autograph]; (2) the photogravures are faced by a Japan vellum leaf with the title printed thereon; (3) the photogravures are printed on Japan paper and mounted; (4) the other full-page plates are printed on Japan vellum; (5) the engravings in the text are printed on Japanese paper and mounted; (6) the book is printed on hand-made paper.

DITTO, new and cheaper edition, 1893. Roy. 8vo. Ruby cloth, top edge gilt, other edges untrimmed.

This appears to be the 1891 edition with merely a new title.

DITTO, new and enlarged edition. 1898. Roy. 8vo. Pp. xx. + 338. 64 illustrations. Dark blue cloth, lettered on back, top edge gilt.

Collation: “Some notices of the previous edition,” 1 leaf; half-title, quotations on reverse, 1 leaf; portrait of Hogarth, by himself; title, imprint on reverse, 1 leaf; dedication to Cosmo Monkhouse, 1 leaf; preface, 2 leaves; preface to 1891 edition, 2 leaves, reverse of second blank; contents and list of illustrations, 2 leaves; drawing by E. A. Abbey (not included in ‘list of illustrations’), “Part i., Memoir,” reverse blank, 1 leaf; the work, 158 leaves, print on reverse of last leaf; index, 10 leaves; 1 blank leaf.

This edition is published by Messrs. Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner, & Co., Limited. In the preface the author says—“Although, by the adoption of a different type, this volume is smaller in size than its predecessor, it actually contains much more matter.”

(X.) EIGHTEENTH CENTURY VIGNETTES. 1892.

EIGHTEENTH / CENTURY / VIGNETTES / BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / “Faute d’archanges, / faut aimer des / créatures imparfaites.” / LONDON / CHATTO AND WINDUS / PICCADILLY / 1892

Crown 8vo. Pp. 262. French-grey cloth, cut edges.

Collation : Portrait of the author ; title, printers' imprint on reverse, 1 leaf ; dedication to Hamilton W. Mable, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; prefatory note, 1 leaf ; contents, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; the work, 127 leaves, reverse of last blank ; 1 blank leaf.

This, though limited to a few copies only, is in reality first (English) edition, as it is the American edition with the English publishers' cancel title, imported by them for copyrighting purposes. It differs materially from the following, which is considered the first edition.

At end are 4 leaves of publishers' catalogue.

"The characteristic of Mr. Dobson appears to be a singular power of perception and appreciation. It would be difficult to name another contemporary critic with such nicety of observation, and with such a happy faculty of discovering and pointing out the peculiar merits of works well known to all, but in which Mr. Dobson is able to point out some fresh beauties or a new charm of thought or expression."—Athenæum.

"All are good—some choicely good. . . . We find it hard to say, without foolish airs of enthusiasm, how good is this book."—Academy.

Collation: Half-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; title, printers' imprint on reverse, 1 leaf; dedication to R. F. Sketchley, reverse blank, 1 leaf; prefatory note, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, reverse blank, 1 leaf; An Epistle to a Friend [in verse], 2 leaves, reverse of second leaf blank; the work, 173 leaves; index, 8 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; publishers' device, reverse blank, 1 leaf; at the beginning is an advertisement of the two previous series, giving extracts from reviews, which forms part of signature 'A,' though it is not numbered with the preliminary matter; preceding page 1 is a small slip of "errata"; at end is a 4 pp. catalogue of the publishers' novels.

NOTE.—No large paper edition of this series was published. This volume, therefore, marks an epoch in the "large paper craze." The decadence of these cumbersome and useless specimens of book "manufacture" may be roughly dated from this time, though it had set in some little time previously.

- "There are some subjects which individual writers have made peculiarly their own. Mr. Austin Dobson and the belles lettres of the eighteenth century afford a case in point. It is doubtful whether anyone now living knows more than Mr. Dobson of the 'teacup times' of Queen Anne and the heady potations of the three Georges, and it is quite certain that no one can write of them with more ease and charm. The Third Series of his 'Eighteenth Century Vignettes' is as delightful and as impeccable as its predecessors, which is to say a great deal in the way of praise. In some of those polished verses, which are growing so unfortunately rare from his pen, Mr. Dobson well indicates his method. . . . This modest aim is most refreshing after the big books of needless biography that 'clutter up' our shelves; when executed with so artistic a hand, it may fairly be said to have given us a work already classic."—World.
- "The characteristic ingredients of the papers are as good as ever—a little gossip, a little bibliography, a little research (just the tit-bits picked for us out of long-hidden labours), a little criticism, a few telling circumstances of the age, and all mixed plentifully with quiet humour. Arduous work was never given so delightfully frivolous an air. Mr. Dobson hides the pains of his learning and offers us the sweets."—Sketch.

[DITTO, New York: D. Appleton and Company. 1882. Parchment, gilt top.]

Included in their series of "English Classics," and evidently printed from the English plates.

DITTO, 1884.

DITTO, 1889.

The only difference between these two editions and the first is that a few typographical errors in the first edition are corrected. Both were issued in parchment, vellum, and cloth.

DITTO, 1896. Re-issue, in same form as the "Parchment Library," but at a lower price, and bound in blue cloth gilt, top edges gilt, others untrimmed.

The only difference in collation is that the verses "With slower pen" are printed on reverse of last page of contents, while an advertisement of "Works by Austin Dobson" occupies reverse of half title.

DITTO, 1888. Fcap. 8vo. Re-issue in a cheaper form, with no front. 12mo. Cloth, edges uncut.

(XIV.) GOLDSMITH'S POEMS AND PLAYS. 1889.

THE / POEMS AND PLAYS / OF / OLIVER GOLDSMITH / EDITED BY / AUSTIN DOBSON / WITH ETCHINGS BY / JOHN JELlicoe & HERBERT RAILTON / [Publishers' device] / VOL.
1. [II.] / LONDON / J. M. DENT AND CO. / 69 GREAT EASTERN STREET / 1889.

"The Temple Library." 2 vols. Fcap. 8vo. Pp. xxx. + 200 and viii. + 236. With 6 illustrations. Pale lavender cloth, lettered on backs and sides, gilt tops, other edges untrimmed.

Collation : Vol. I. : Notice as to number printed ("This edition is limited to Seven Hundred and Fifty copies for England, and Five Hundred copies for America"), reverse blank, 1 leaf ; half title, with note on Canonbury Tower on reverse, 1 leaf; frontispiece; title, in red and black, reverse blank, 1 leaf; dedication to Edward Ford, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 1 leaf; introduction, 11 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; the work, 90 leaves; appendix, 9 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; printers' colophon, reverse blank, 1 leaf; plates at pp. 31 and 49 [the list says 25 and 47, but this is evidently an error, and they are not so placed]; Vol. II., half-title, with notice as to number printed on reverse, 1 leaf; frontispiece; title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; sub-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 1 leaf; the work, 113 leaves; appendix, 4 leaves; printers' colophon, reverse blank, 1 leaf; plates at pp. 113 and 203.

ITEM, large hand-made paper. Cr. 8vo. Half parchment, lettered on backs, edges untrimmed.

"Only One Hundred and Fifty copies of this large paper Edition have been printed for sale in England, and One Hundred copies for America This is No. . . . of the English Edition."

"It is fitting that Mr. Dobson, who has, perhaps, written the best Life of Goldsmith in the language, should edit his 'Poems and Plays,' and he has done this so thoroughly . . . that very little scope seems to be left for any future editor of the poet."—Spectator.

DITTO, 1891. Fcap. 8vo. Pp. xxviii. + 408. Cloth, edges untrimmed.

Collation: One blank leaf; half title, with note on Canonbury Tower on reverse, 1 leaf; frontispiece; title, printers' imprint on reverse, 1 leaf; contents, 1 leaf; introduction, 11 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; the work, 203 leaves; printers' colophon, reverse blank, 1 leaf.

Although there is not one word of explanation, this is evidently a reprint in one volume on thinner paper of the previous item, and probably the body of the work is printed from the same plates.

DITTO, 1896, issued in separate volumes, with titles as follows:—

The / Poems / of Oliver / Goldsmith / Edited by / Austin Dobson / LONDON Published / by J. M. DENT & Coy. / PHILADELPHIA J. B. / LIPPINCOTT Coy. Mccccxcvi. [This title within engraved border.]

Fcap. 8vo. Pp. xxviii. + 180. With portrait and 2 etchings. Cloth gilt, top edge gilt, other edges untrimmed. With paper wrapper.

Collation: Half-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; portrait (by H. G. Webb); title in red and black, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 1 leaf; list of illustrations, reverse blank, 1 leaf; introduction, 11 leaves, reverse of last blank; the poems, 90 leaves. The two etchings face pp. 25 and 47.

The / Plays / of Oliver / Goldsmith / Edited by / Austin Dobson / LONDON Published / by J. M. DENT & Coy. / PHILADELPHIA J. B. / LIPPINCOTT Coy. Mccccxcvi. [This title within engraved border.]

Fcap. 8vo. Pp. viii. + 228. With 3 illustrations (by J. Jellicoe and H. Railton). Cloth gilt, top edge gilt, other edges untrimmed. With a paper wrapper.

Collation: One blank leaf; half-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; frontispiece; title in red and black, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, reverse blank, 1 leaf; list of illustrations, reverse blank, 1 leaf; the plays, 113 leaves; printers' imprint, reverse blank, 1 leaf.

These are substantially reprints of the Temple Library edition, and form part of the publishers' collected edition of Goldsmith, though that fact is only recorded on the paper wrapper and in the publishers' catalogue.

(XV.) VICAR OF WAKEFIELD (Cranford Edition). 1890.

The / Vicar of Wakefield / By / Oliver Goldsmith / with a Preface by / Austin Dobson / and Illustrations by / Hugh Thomson [engraving] / London / Macmillan & Co. / and New York / MCCCCXC.

"Cranford" Series. Cr. 8vo. Pp. xxxvi. + 306. 181 illustrations in the text, excluding frontispiece. Extra olive-green cloth, gilt edges, protected by paper wrapper with one of the illustrations reproduced on it.

Collation: One blank leaf; half-title, publishers' monogram on reverse, 1 leaf; frontispiece; title, printers' imprint on reverse, 1 leaf; dedication to Austin Dobson, reverse blank, 1 leaf; preface, 8 leaves, reverse of last blank; contents, 3 leaves, reverse of last blank; list of illustrations, 3 leaves; "advertisement," reverse blank, 1 leaf; the work, 153 leaves, printers' colophon on reverse of last leaf; list of Messrs. Macmillan's publications, 3 leaves.

IDEM, olive-green cloth, paper label, edges untrimmed.

IDEM, large paper. Imp. 8vo. Hand-made paper. Red buckram, paper label, edges untrimmed.

The only variation in collation is that in place of the publishers' list there is one blank leaf.

DITTO, second edition, 1891, gilt edges.

In this a new illustration was substituted for the one in the first edition at page 95.

IDEM, uncut.

DITTO, "reprinted" 1892, gilt edges.

IDEM, uncut.

DITTO, "reprinted," 1894.

"Of an illustrated edition of the 'Vicar' published at the end of 1890, we are credibly informed that 3,000 copies were sold within a twelvemonth. And where is 'Rasselas' now?"—Note to 'A Garret in Gough Square' in 'Eighteenth Century Vignettes,' 1892.

(XVI.) GOLDSMITH'S CITIZEN. 1891.

2 vols. Fcap. 8vo. Pp. xxx. + 260 and x. + 300. With 6 etchings by H. Railton.

Cloth gilt, top edges gilt, other edges untrimmed. With a paper wrapper, on which is printed, besides the title, "The Works of Oliver Goldsmith."

Collation : Vol. I. : Half-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; frontispiece; title in red and black, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 2 leaves; list of illustrations, reverse blank, 1 leaf; introduction, 6 leaves, reverse of last blank; original title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; Goldsmith's preface, 3 leaves, reverse of last blank; the work, 123 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; illustrative notes, 6 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; printers' imprint, reverse blank, 1 leaf. Vol. II. : Half-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; frontispiece; title in red and black, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 2 leaves; list of illustrations, reverse blank, 1 leaf; the work, 142 leaves; illustrative notes, 8 leaves, printers' imprint on reverse of last leaf. The other four plates are at pp. 46 and 176, Vol. I, and pp. 70 and 180, Vol. 2.

This is substantially a reprint of the Temple Library edition, and forms part of the publishers' collected edition of Goldsmith's Works, though that fact is only recorded on the paper wrapper and in the publishers' catalogue.

(XXXII.) SAINTSBURY'S ESSAYS. 1891.

ESSAYS / ON / FRENCH NOVELISTS / BY / GEORGE SAINTSBURY / PERCIVAL AND CO. / KING STREET, COVENT GARDEN / London / 1891.

Crown 8vo. Pp. xiv. + 460. Crimson buckram, paper label, edges untrimmed.

Collation : One blank leaf ; half-title, advertisement on reverse, 1 leaf ; title, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; preface, 4 leaves, reverse of last blank ; contents, reverse blank, 1 leaf ; the work, 230 leaves.

In the essay on Anthony Hamilton, Mr. Saintsbury gives (p. 56) Mr. Dobson's translation of his beautiful chanson, "Celle qu'adore mon cœur n'est ni brune ni blonde," which commences, "She that I love is neither brown nor fair." Mr. Saintsbury introduces it with these words—"Of this last charming piece my friend, Mr. Austin Dobson, our sole heir and single of the poets of the early eighteenth century, has given an admirable translation." But the version given by Mr. Saintsbury is not so good as that which appeared in the first edition of At the Sign of the Lyre, 1885, under the title, 'Of his Mistress,' and has been repeated in all later collections. A comparison of the two versions of the third verse exemplifies the remarkable manner in which Mr. Dobson polishes his verses before leaving them as a legacy to his country. The Saintsbury version would satisfy the most fastidious critic, but Mr. Dobson is his own most fastidious critic, and it did not satisfy him—the result is absolute perfection. Saintsbury version—

"Her wit, her wisdom are direct from Heaven ;
And many a tender touch explains
How with the Graces what remains
Has thriven."

General version—

"Her wit, her wisdom are direct from Heaven :
But the sweet Graces from their store
A thousand finer touches more
Have given."

Whether Mr. Saintsbury's version is copied from one which appeared in a magazine, or whether it represents one of those unfortunate "re-touches" of which other examples are noted in this Bibliography, the compiler has not discovered.

In the article on Lord De Tabley (p. 193) Mr. Gosse prints, for the first time, the lines which Mr. Dobson sent to Lord De Tabley commencing, "Still may the Muses foster thee, O Friend," prefixing them with these words—"Mr. Austin Dobson had always been an admirer, and one of the latest tributes which cheered De Tabley was a copy of verses from this friend of twenty years, which I have the privilege of printing here for the first time." The verses are printed in Collected Poems, amongst the Notes (p. 526).

(XLI.) THE PAGEANT. 1897.

THE PAGEANT / EDITED BY / C. HAZELWOOD / SHANNON AND / J. W. GLEESON / WHITE / PUBLISHED BY / HENRY AND CO. AT THEIR / OFFICES 93 SAINT / MARTIN'S LANE / LONDON / MDCCC / XCVII.

Imp. 8vo. Pp. xii. + 266. 24 plates. Light brown decorated cloth gilt, edges untrimmed. Protected by a decorated paper wrapper, printed in colours.

The illustrations (except frontispiece) are numbered with the text. Besides the 24 plates (one of which is in colours) there are 9 other illustrations in the text.

Mr. Dobson's contribution is A Postscript to 'Retaliation' (page 1), which was read for the author by the Master of the Temple at the dinner of the 'Johnson Society' in Pembroke College, Oxford, on June 22, 1896, and was first published in this volume. In reprinting it in the Collected Poems, Mr. Dobson has omitted the greater part of the last two lines, with the following explanation in the 'notes':—"They then [when read] concluded with a couplet appropriate to that occasion. In their present place, it has been thought preferable to leave them—like Goldsmith's epitaph on Reynolds—unfinished."

Falconer], 2 leaves, reverse of second blank; contents, 2 leaves; the 'Garland,' 27 leaves; notes, 8 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; 1 blank leaf. At the end is inserted a corrigenda slip, headed 'Indulgent Reader.'

This volume, compiled and privately printed by Mr. C. M. Falconer, of Dundee, is a poetical tribute to Mr. Andrew Lang, and includes contributions by R. L. Stevenson, W. E. Henley, W. H. Pollock, Edmund Gosse, F. Locker-Lampson, Robert Bridges, Richard Le Gallienne, May Kendall, Austin Dobson, and many others. Mr. Dobson's contributions are: No. xviii., Theocritus; No. xxi., Dizain; No. xxiii., To the Reader; No. xxxv., A Broken Sword. No. xviii. is the third complimentary poem in Specimens of a Translation of Theocritus. No. xxi. was specially written for Lang's XXII. Ballades in Blue China. No. xxiii. is prefixed to Lang's Ballades and Verses Vain. No. xxxv. appeared in the sixth edition of At the Sign of the Lyre.

Since printing off the previous sheet the following additional works, to which Mr Dobson has contributed, have come into the compiler's hands, and it seems better to place them here than in an Appendix. Though numbered on from the last entry (XLV.) for convenience, they must be allotted by the reader to the particular year to which they properly belong:—

(XLVI.) LANG'S THEOCRITUS. 1879.

(XLVII.) LOCKER'S PATCHWORK. 1879.

PATCHWORK / BY / FREDERICK LOCKER / [vignette] LONDON / SMITH, ELDER, & CO., 15
WATERLOO PLACE / 1879.

Fcap. 8vo. Pp. viii. + 234. Green cloth, lettered on back, edges untrimmed.

Collation: Half-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; dedication, reverse blank, 1 leaf; preface, 1 leaf; the work, 117 leaves; advertisement of London Lyrics, reverse blank, 1 leaf.

Contains 'A Rustic Love Letter,' which is the letter from the first poem in Vignettes in Rhyme, entitled,

'A Dead Letter,' with this criticism of Mr. Locker's added:—"Surely, these are very happy stanzas, simple and not flat, tender and not sentimental. I see no reason why they should not be as acceptable fifty years hence as they are to-day, but certainly fifty years is a long time!" Mr. Locker's prophecy seems likely to be fulfilled, for already twenty of the fifty years have elapsed, and Mr. Dobson's poems are more popular than ever.

IDEM, large paper, printed on hand-made paper, for members of the Philobiblon Society, and limited to fifty copies. Brown cloth.

(XLVIII.) THEOCRITUS, BION, AND MOSCHUS. 1880.

THEOCRITUS / BION / AND / MOSCHUS / RENDERED INTO ENGLISH PROSE / WITH AN INTRODUCTORY ESSAY / BY / A. LANG, M.A. / Lately Fellow of Merton College, Oxford / [vignette] London / MACMILLAN AND CO. / 1880 / [All rights reserved].

Crown 8vo. Pp. xlv. + 200. Dark blue cloth, edges untrimmed, lettered on back.

Contains, at p. xl., Mr. Dobson's Villanelle, commencing, "O Singer of the field and fold," which was previously printed in Mr. Lang's privately printed Specimens of a Translation of Theocritus. It was afterwards included in the American Vignettes in Rhyme under the title, 'For a Copy of Theocritus.'

Collation: Half-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; title, printers' imprint on reverse, 1 leaf; dedication 'To Ernest Myers,' reverse blank, 1 leaf; preface, reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 1 leaf; introductory essay, Theocritus and his Age, 14 leaves, reverse of last leaf blank; two 'lives' of Theocritus, Mr. Dobson's 'Villanelle' on reverse, 1 leaf; verses by E. W. Gosse, reverse blank, 1 leaf; sub-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; the work, 100 leaves.

(XLIX.) LANG'S XXII. BALLADES IN BLUE CHINA. 1880.

A. LANG / XXII. Ballades / in Blue China / [vignette surrounded with this motto: Tout par Soullas] LONDON / C. KEGAN PAUL & CO., 1, PATERNOSTER SQUARE / MDCCCLXXX.

Fcap. 8vo. Pp. 80. Title-page printed in blue. Parchment, with title repeated on it in blue, edges untrimmed.

Collation: One blank leaf; half-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; title, quotations on reverse, 1 leaf; dedication, 'To Austin Dobson,' reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 1 leaf; 1 blank leaf; the poems, 36 leaves. A curious feature in the collation of this book is that the first blank leaf and the half-title are not included in the pagination, while the second blank leaf is included; thus pp. i. and ii. (un-numbered) form title; iii. and iv. (un-numbered), dedication; v. and vi. (the latter only numbered), contents; vii. and viii. (un-numbered) are blank, then the poems commence with pp. 9 and 10 (Egyptian numerals—the latter only numbered). The signatures, too, are equally confusing, for the first blank leaf is marked a, counting 8 leaves brings us to A, which is at page 13 (that is, the fifth page of the work proper, not the first page, like most signatures are arranged), 2 leaves brings us to B, and from there we go on in eights.

Mr. Dobson contributed the Dizain ("As, to the pipe, with rhythmic feet") at p. 57 (signed A. D.), this being its first appearance, the compiler believes.

and X.

A. LANG / XXXII. Ballades / in Blue China / [vignette surrounded with this motto:
Tout par Soullas] LONDON / C. KEGAN PAUL & CO. ; 1, PATERNOSTER SQUARE / MDCCCLXXXI.

Collation: One blank leaf; 'A-Ballade of XXXII. Ballades; signed F. P. [Francis Palgrave], 1 leaf; half title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; frontispiece; title, quotations on reverse, 1 leaf; dedication 'To Austin Dobson,' reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 2 leaves, reverse of second blank; one blank leaf; the poems, 49 leaves; one blank leaf. The first blank leaf is not included in the pagination, while the second one is. The signatures are as confusing as in the XXII. Ballades; the first blank leaf is marked A, counting four leaves brings us to a, eight more brings us to B, which is at page 23, that is, the ninth page of the work proper; from there it goes on in eights, with six to finish up with. The pages are un-numbered from i. to ix., then x. and xi. follow, then un-numbered till 15, then 16 to 112—the latter figures being in Egyptian. Mr. Dobson's 'Dizain' is at p. 84.

DITTO, 1892. Fcap. 8vo, pp. 120, cloth, top edges gilt, others untrimmed.

DITTO, 1899. Ditto.

In these editions, which are enlarged by additional poems, Mr. Dobson's 'Dizain' comes at page 83. They contain no notice of what edition they are, and probably there are several others between 1881 and 1892. (The notice on reverse of Mr. Dobson's introductory stanzas in Ballades and Verses Vain proves there was an edition dated 1883.)

(LI.) LOCKER'S LONDON LYRICS. 1881.

LONDON LYRICS / BY / FREDERICK LOCKER / LONDON / 1881.

Fcap. 8vo. Pp. x. + 108. Ruby buckram, lettered on back, with author's initials on side, edges untrimmed.

Mr. Austin Dobson made the selection for this privately printed edition, and prefixed the lines commencing, "Apollo made, one April day," signed A. D. These lines have not been reprinted.

Collation: One leaf containing signature A only; half-title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; title, printers' imprint on reverse, 1 leaf; prefatory verse by A. D., reverse blank, 1 leaf; contents, 1 leaf; the poems, 51 leaves; notes, 3 leaves; 1 blank leaf.

IDEM, large paper, with an illustration by Kate Greenaway, and another by Caldecott.*

Very few copies were printed. Some of them contain Caldecott's illustration in two states.

Rose in the hedge-row grown,
 Where the scent of the fresh sweet hay
 Comes up from the fields new mown ;
 You know it, you know it—alone,
 So I gather you here to-day.

Bibliography of Austin Dobson.

IV.

TITLES OF PIECES IN VERSE AND PROSE.

PART IV.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF TITLES OF PIECES IN VERSE AND PROSE, with First Lines of the Former ; giving References (arranged in Chronological Order) to the several Books and Magazines in which they are found.

i. Verse.

* * The following abbreviations of titles are used :—V. in R. for VIGNETTES IN RHYME ; V. in R. (A. e.) for the American book with that title ; P. in P. for PROVERBS IN PORCELAIN ; P. in P. (i. e.) for the illustrated book under that title ; O. W. I. for OLD WORLD IDYLLS ; S. of L. for AT THE SIGN OF THE LYRE ; S. of L. (A. e.) for the American edition ; S. P. for SELECTED POEMS ; B. of B. B. for BALLAD OF BEAU BROCADE ; P. S. O., I. and II., for POEMS ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS, 2 vols. ; S. of R. for THE STORY OF ROSINA ; C. P. for COLLECTED POEMS ; E. C. V., I., II., and III., for EIGHTEENTH CENTURY VIGNETTES, 3 series ; F. F. for FOUR FRENCHWOMEN.

The numerals following the references refer to the pages of the works mentioned, and apply to all succeeding editions of the same work except when otherwise stated. The references are in all cases placed beneath the original title (when known), though in many cases the later title may be the one an enquirer would more naturally look under; but cross references remove any difficulty. In cases where a piece has (or, when originally printed, had) no title, the first line is given. Titles are differentiated from first-lines by the former being printed in capitals and the latter in 'lower case.'

∴ References to the American and English Poems on Several Occasions (1889) are purposely omitted, because those volumes are identical in contents with the 1889 editions (9th and 6th respectively) of Old World Idylls and At the Sign of the Lyre.

After its first issue in Belgravia the following lines were prefixed :—

O, Love's but a dance
Where Time plays the fiddle !
See the couples advance,—
O, Love's but a dance !
A whisper, a glance,—
' Shall we twirl down the middle ?'
O Love's but a dance,
Where Time plays the fiddle !

This prefix verse is also printed separately in Latter Day Lyrics, 1878, p. 376, and Ballades and Rondeaux, 1887, p. 220.

“FOR Mayfair’s balls and ballets are over,”

1889, Hamilton’s Parodies, vol. vi., 2.

A stanza of eight lines in parody of the following lines of Swinburne’s Atalanta :—

“For winter’s rains and ruins are over,
And all the season of snows and sins;
The days dividing lover and lover,
The light that loses, the night that wins.”

Mr. Hamilton omitted to give the source of Mr. Dobson’s parody, and the compiler has been unable to trace it. It has not been reprinted.

IN THE PORCH (Across my neighbour's waste of whins).

1871, St. Paul's, June, 220.

Never reprinted.

This poem consists of eight stanzas, of which the following is the first :—

Across my neighbour's waste of whins
 For roods the rabbit burrows ;
 You scarce can see where first begins
 His range of steaming furrows ;
 I am not sad that he is great,
 He does not ask my pardon ;
 Beside his wall I cultivate—
 I cultivate my garden.

1897, C. P., 412.

Also included in Ballades and Rondeaux, 1887, p. 117. (Vide Part I, sec. iv.).

In the first ed. of Proverbs in Porcelain the first line is altered to, ‘June in the zenith is torrid,’ and other changes made; while in the second edition, and in all subsequent reprints, the first line is restored to its first form, except that the first word is changed to Toiling.

IN WITCHING TIME (In Witching time, when, sparkling higher,).

1886, In Witching Time, 5.

Never reprinted. This is a rondeau commencing :—

In witching time, when, sparkling higher,
The last log crumbles in the fire,
And, with the midnight’s creeping cold,
There comes a hush on young and old,
And in the settle nods the sire,

JESTER'S REVENGE, THE (Right merry at Yule are the quips and wiles,—).

1873, Graphic, Dec. 25, 25.

A poem of six stanzas, which has never been reprinted, commencing—

Right merry at Yule are the quips and wiles,—
 (O, the laugh is high i' the hall!—)
 Plump Alison's face is puckered with smiles
 As she thinks of a trick on the jester Giles,—
 (But a kiss is better than all!)

Never reprinted by the author, but included in Ballades and Rondeaux, 1887, p. 279, where it is very greatly altered.

KITTY (Blooming as a rose,).

1872, Nautical Magazine, May, 393.

Never reprinted. This is a poem of eight eight-line stanzas, of which the following is a specimen:—

Blooming as a rose,
 Plump as Dolly Varden,
 Pretty Kitty goes
 Down the little garden,
 Smiling at her thought—
 Would that there were any
 Like it to be bought,
 Kitty, for a penny!

“LAUGHTER and song the poet brings,”

1884, Lang's Ballades and Verses Vain, vii.

Reprinted in A New Friendship's Garland, 1899, under the title, 'To the Reader' (under which title it is entered in the 'contents' of Ballades and Verses Vain), but not elsewhere. These verses, consisting of two five-line stanzas, form the introduction to Mr. Lang's book. It is in the following genial manner Mr. Dobson introduces his brother poet to his own already-won American friends:—

“Laughter and song this poet, too,
O Western brothers, sends to you :
With doubtful flight the darting train
Have crossed the bleak Atlantic main,—
Now warm them in your hearts again !”

- 1871, Evening Hours, Nov., 484.

Not reprinted. Consists of three eight-line verses, signed "A. D.," and dated June, 1865. This is so unlike Mr. Dobson's usual work that it is only right to note that there is no other evidence for attributing this piece to him except the initials and the fact that he contributed to later numbers of the same magazine.

Also included in Saintsbury's Essays on French Novelists, 1891, p. 56. (Vide Part I, sec. iv.)

In a note to Collected Poems (p. 523) Mr. Dobson says, "This translation was made at the request of Professor Saintsbury, who included it in his study of the author of Mémoires de Grammont." As the Professor's article did not see the light till October, 1890 (Fortnightly Review), it comes about that it was printed by Mr. Dobson prior to its publication by Professor Saintsbury, for whom it was written.

OLD MAN OF THE SEA, THE (I marked his venerable look,).

1872, Nautical Magazine, Feb., 96.

A poem of nine eight-line stanzas, never reprinted. This is the first stanza :—

I marked his venerable look,
His weather-beaten hue;
He hitched his ancient clothing up
As man-of-war's men do;
He had the genuine 'tween deck stoop,
The measured step had he
Which comes from pacing on the poop,
This "old man of the sea."

In the first edition of Proverbs in Porcelain the title was changed to “‘Old Clo.’” but in subsequent reprints the original title was restored (with the slight variation of ‘Premiers’ for ‘Premières’), and from the second edition of Proverbs in Porcelain onwards, a stanza, as follows, was prefixed as a ‘motto’;—

Old Loves and old dreams,—
 "Requiescant in pace."
 How strange now it seems,—
 "Old " Loves and "old " dreams !
 Yet we once wrote you reams,
 Maude, Alice, and Gracie !
 Old Loves and old dreams,—

SERENADE, THE (A gondolier stood at a gondola door).

1875, Evening Hours. Jan., 8.

Never reprinted.

Consists of five stanzas, of which the following is the first :—

A gondolier stood at a gondola door,
 In an attitude very much prized of yore
 (He had tried at a dozen of tunes or more
 That morn by the light of a candle).
 And now, "while the moon o'er the waters played,"
 He treated his love to a serenade
 (For this was the amateur gondolier's trade
 In the City of Bridges and Scandal!).

STRAY NOTES OF A HONEYMOON (At last we are free,—).

1878, Hood's Comic Annual, 92.

1885, S. of L. (A. e.), 203.

Never again reprinted. This is a series of eight triolets, with the following sub-titles:—In the Train, From the Window, The First Walk, Arcadia, At a Bookstall, Misgivings (No. 1), Misgivings (No. 2), The Sum Total. Here is the fifth:—

“Here it is in the ‘Times,’—
 Dear Charlie,—how funny!
 ‘Twixt a ‘Smith’ and a ‘Symes,’—
 Here it is!—in the ‘Times.’”
 “And it’s not with the ‘crimes’!”
 “You must pay. I’ve no money!”
 Here it is in the ‘Times,’—
 Dear Charlie,—how funny!”

In the reprint the first word of the title is dropped. Strictly this series of triolets should have been treated in the same manner as the ‘Rose Leaves’ series, and entered in extenso under the sub-titles, but as they have not been reprinted in England the above entry was considered sufficient.

(XIIIa.) POSTSCRIPT TO RETALIATION. 1896.

A / POSTSCRIPT / TO / DR. GOLDSMITH'S RETALIATION, / BEING AN EPITAPH ON / SAMUEL JOHNSON, LL.D. / PRINTED IN JUNE, 1896 / [signed] Austin Dobson.

4to. Pp. 8. Unbound.

Collation: Title, reverse blank, 1 leaf; the poem, 2 leaves, reverse of second blank; one blank leaf. Privately printed, and only a few copies done, signed by the author. This poem was afterwards reprinted (with slight alterations, and under an abbreviated title) in The Pageant, 1897, where, in a footnote, the reader is informed that it was "Read for the author, by the Master of the Temple, at the dinner of the 'Johnson Society' in Pembroke College, Oxford, on the 22nd June of 1896." Besides containing the concluding couplet, appropriate to the occasion, which, though included in The Pageant reprint, is omitted from the Collected Poems (vide Note to C. P., p. 520), this has a different reading of the introductory note from the published version; thus, instead of saying, 'It may be that the following . . . is another forgery,' this reads, 'another of his [Whitefoord's] forgeries.' There are also three or four other readings which are changed in the reprints.

NOTES.

Page 6. III. Vignettes in Rhyme: Another edition, evidently printed from the same plates, but with a new title, bearing the name of White, Stokes and Allen as publishers, appeared in 1886.

Page 9. V. At the Sign of the Lyre: Another edition, evidently printed from the same plates, but with a new title bearing the name of White, Stokes and Allen as publishers, appeared in 1886.

Page 11. VI. Eighth ed. of The Sign of the Lyre: Further impressions of this edition have been printed with a later date. The writer has one dated 1894.

Page 75. XI. Garland of Rachel: The compiler of this bibliography unfortunately does not possess a copy of this rara avis. In fact, the only copy which has ever occurred for sale was that of the late "Lewis Carroll," which brought £12 10s. The following account of this literary curiosity is taken from a Scottish newspaper:—"In 1880 the Rev. C. H. Daniel, Fellow and Bursar of Worcester College, Oxford, had a daughter born to him, whom he named Rachel Anne Olive. Mr. Daniel is happy in the possession of many friends, and one of them, Mr. T. Humphrey Ward, suggested that several of his poetical friends should combine and weave a garland of verse in honour of the young lady. The idea was taken up con amore, and the result was "The Garland of Rachel" (1881). There were eighteen contributors, most of whom are well-known men and women of letters. Mr. Daniel leads off, followed by an Oxford clergyman, Albert Watson (in Latin), Austin Dobson, Andrew Lang, John Addington Symonds, Robert Bridges, Lewis Carroll, Sir Richard Harington, Bart. (in Latin), A. Mary F. Robinson, Edmund Gosse, Francis W. Bourdillon, W. F. Henley (in French), W. J. Courthope, Frederick Locker T. Humphrey Ward, Ernest Myers, Margaret L. Woods, and C. J. Cruttwell. As each of these poets treats the theme in his own way, the result is variety and charm, while the poetry as a whole is of a high order. Mr. Daniel himself set up the types and printed the book at his own well-known private press; his wife did all the miniation, or floral lettering, by hand in red ink—and most neatly done it is, too; and Alfred Parsons, the artist, contributed three designs, one of which serves as the printer's mark of the press, being a figure of Daniel among the lions. Thirty-six copies only were printed, and each title-page bears the name of one of the authors as principal contributor. Thus Austin Dobson's copy bears to be by him "and divers kindly hands," while Mr. Gosse's copy has his name, and so on. The book is demy 8vo in size, 67 pages, and is bound in pure vellum. With it was issued an eight-page pamphlet by way of preface—a curiosity in its way."

Mr. C. M. Falconer, of Dundee (whose kind assistance is acknowledged elsewhere), has an unique copy made by himself in MS. from "Rachel's" own copy, lent him by the kindness of her father for the purpose. This is further enriched with letters, &c. from nearly all the contributors, and the whole bound in pale blue Levant morocco by Zaehnsdorf. The owner says he would not part with it for £100.

Page 85. XXV. Pope Centenary Catalogue: At the time of printing this page the compiler was unable to obtain a copy of this Catalogue; consequently the description was copied from another bibliographical work, with the usual results of copying—inaccuracy! The large paper edition has, besides the portrait after Jervas, another after Sir Godfrey Kneller. Here is a collation of this edition:—Portrait after Jervas; title, with imprint and notice as follows on reverse: RICHMOND, SURREY: PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY EDWARD KING, "TIMES" STEAM PRINTING WORKS. VELLUM PAPER EDITION. ONE HUNDRED COPIES ONLY PRINTED, 1 leaf; list of the committee (Mr. Dobson is among Vice-Presidents), with notice as to compilation of Catalogue (Mr. Dobson is among compilers) on reverse, 1 leaf; biographical note, reverse blank, 1 leaf; A Dialogue to the Memory of Mr. Alexander Pope, by Austin Dobson, 2 leaves; the Catalogue, 23 leaves; names of contributors to the museum (Mr. Dobson's is among them), 1 leaf; 1 blank leaf.

Page 90. XXXII. Since writing the note to this book it has been shown (vide Part IV., sec. i., p. 227) that though written for Mr. Saintsbury previous to the publication of The Sign of the Lyre, 1885, this poem was not printed by him till Oct., 1890, in The Fortnightly Review. Mr. Saintsbury's version is therefore, though later published, the original one, and the Sign of the Lyre version is the author's revise.

Page 102. L. Lang's XXXII. Ballades: By the courtesy of Colonel W. F. Prideaux, the writer is enabled to add that the verses by F. P. (Sir Frederick Pollock—not Francis Palgrave, as stated in the text) were first prefixed to the second issue of the first edition of XXXII. Ballades, 1880, being printed on the leaf 'a,' which in the first issue is blank. The third edition of XXXII. Ballades came out in the autumn of 1882, being as nearly as possible a reprint of the second edition, but without the frontispiece. In 1888 a large paper edition of the Ballades was issued, corresponding with the large paper editions of Old World Idylls and At the Sign of the Lyre.
